We do all the work so you can avoid all the trouble

Our approach to working with clients is surprisingly simple, given your potential revenue gains and the complexities of bankruptcy debt recovery:

One-time Bulk Purchases

We start by asking for a file of the assets you would like to sell, conduct our due diligence, and send you a pricing proposal. After reaching an agreement, you deliver your portfolio in whatever file format is most convenient. Then, when the sale is complete, you receive payment of the purchase price and simply code your accounts as sold.

Forward-Flow Agreements

Like bulk purchases, we start by asking for a file of your consumer bankruptcy debt portfolio. We review the accounts and establish a price for future sales within a fixed time period, such as one year. From there, you send your latest bankrupt accounts (which we can identify for you) on a regular schedule in a file format of your choice, and we execute the sale.
